block. Now how would that individual prove that...or just...you know.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Well, that in...

SENATOR JANSSEN: These kind of things happen. What would...what would he do if the city came to him and said, Emil, where's your...you know, where are you getting rid of your garbage at? Emil's not going to go tell them that he's dumping it in the city's.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Well, Emil is supposed to be participating in the municipal waste system, like everybody else, and Emil's going to have to produce a receipt or come around here.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Now, I didn't hear your conversation with Senator Vrtiska, you remember last year or the year before we had an interim study through your committee about illegal dumping.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Um-hum.

SENATOR JANSSEN: This...kind of the follow up on this? Do you think that this will help curb that to some extent?

SENATOR BEUTLER: Senator, I don't think it's going to solve the problem entirely by any means, but I think it will help, and this bill and other bills we've done a series of little things that we think will help. But frankly, what will help most is when everybody has the attitude that they ought not to be doing that.

SENATOR JANSSEN: You do see an awful lot of this out in the roadside, you know.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Yeah.

SENATOR JANSSEN: You'll see...bags of raw garbage out there and...

SENATOR BEUTLER: We're going through a transition time now, as you well know, with these regional dumps and we're trying to
